

North Putnam Eighth Grader Zone Winner

Eric Alexander, an eighth grader in North Putnam schools, was judged first place winner last Sunday in an oratorical contest held in Terre Haute and sponsored by Optimist Clubs of the state. Young Alexander earned the right to compete in this zone event after winning first place in the Boys' division in a similar contest which was promoted by the Greencastle Optimist Club and held at McAnally Center.

Winning second place in the Girls' division at Terre Haute was Cathy McCloud, a Cloverdale sophomore, who had earlier been a first place winner in the local contest. She was also winner of an oratorical contest sponsored recently by the Greencastle Rotary Club.

The next stop for Eric Alexander is Indianapolis where on May 5 he will compete with other zone winners for state honors. A win in this contest would make him eligible for national competition.

The young oratorical winner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Alexander. The eventual top prize of the contest is a $500 scholarship.

Afro-America Cultural Event Activities Open On Campus

With programs in communications, business, art, medicine and entertainment, Afro-American cultural weekend activities opened at DePauw University.

Indianapolis attorney Fay Williams launched the three-day event this morning with a convocation lecture on the topic, "The Black Woman in America." The weekend's primary theme is black women.

A cultural weekend variety show tonight will offer performing groups from five cities, including four collegiate groups. The 8 p.m. show in the Union Building ballroom will feature the Denison University choir, the Earlham College Revelation Choir, the Gary (Ind.) Dance Troupe, the Kenyon College African Dance Ensemble and the DePauw Association of Afro-American Students choir.

Saturday's program will be devoted largely to career oriented workshops, beginning at 10 a.m. That program includes:

Business Workshop-Huerta Tribble, minority business affairs, Indianapolis.

Communications Workshop-Tony Harris, program director, WTLC radio, Indianapolis, "What FM Stations Should Be."

Larry Oglesby, account executive and columnist, Indianapolis Recorder and Claudia Polley, newswoman, WTLC, "Women in Communication." Georgia English, journalist, Black Express, "Women in Communication."

Medicine Workshop-Cyril Croker, M.D., Washington, D.C., and Rosemary Moore, R.N., East Chicago, Ind.

All workshops are open to the public and will be held simultaneously in the Afro-American House on South Locust Street.

Navajo Is Man With One Foot In Two Worlds

The Navajo Indian is a man with a foot in two worlds, wanting to preserve the culture of his people but realizing the value of the white man's technology, according to Mrs. John Boyd, who was guest speaker at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Greencastle Kiwanis Club.

Mrs. Boyd, who resides at 210 Hillsdale Ave., has been a writer of textbooks for 45 years and is currently engaged in preparing texts for the Navajos. During her career, 20 of her books have been published.

One of her Navajo textbooks, a primer or first reader, is now in print. Her second textbook, for fourth and fifth graders, has gone to press, and she is currently engaged in preparing a book aimed at junior high level.

Tracing the history of the Navajo people, Mrs. Boyd related their struggle to cope with inroads of white men into their ancestral land. They were forced to move from one area to another and were victimized by government bureaucrats. In an effort to make "white men" of Indian youth, the government sent Navajo young people to distant boarding schools, keeping them away from their families nine months of the year.

At the close of World War II, Navajo veterans returned with an insistence that they must have schools. In 1969, the Navajo Community College, which provided two years of academic work, opened its doors. Vocational courses are included.

From its inception, the school has been a special interest project of Delta Kappa Gamma. The professional sorority has provided two teachers in the Pre-College or Directed Studies school, as it is now known.

Mrs. Boyd described her work with Navajo texts as a "gift of service." The books are printed by the college press since most publishers would not be interested printing the limited number of books needed by Indian schools.

The Navajo college was started by the Navajos themselves with no government funds at the outset. Support has been given to the school, not only by Delta Kappa Gamma, but by other organizations.

One of the aims of the school is to preserve Navajo culture and a number of hours in this field are required, Mrs. Boyd said. She described the Navajos as "great adapters" who borrowed from other cultures but retained their own identity.

The Navajos have now moved to a new college campus, but as a token of their past, the library and dormitories, are designed in the shape of hogans, the traditional dwelling of their ancestors.

Mrs. Boyd said the Navajos are the largest Indian tribe in the United States and the most forward looking. Presently, they have two goals: to manage their own affairs and to get control of their schools and their funds.

Haltom Cautions Users Of Manufactured Fire Wood

Convenience, economy and ecology are causing more and more consumers to use manufactured wax/wood firelogs instead of natural firewood.

However, comments Lester Haltom, Fire Chief of The Greencastle Fire Department, it is important that consumers read the directions on the manufactured logs because, like all fire products, the logs should be used carefully and they require a break from traditional fireplace habits.

"Many things people do with a real wood fire are either wasteful or dangerous," Chief Haltom says. "Poking at the fire, breaking up a burning log and building too large a fire are the most serious mistakes. These same habits also can create potential danger when manufactured logs are being used."

One of the major causes of difficulty consumers experience with manufactured logs is using more than one log at a time or adding a firelog to an existing fire.

Virtually all the nationally distributed brands of firelogs put out as much heat as two or three hardwood logs, and people can cause accidents if they ignite more than one at a time. Adding a wax/wood log to an existing fire may result in a flare up or an excessively hot fire.

Another mistake firelog users make is poking or breaking apart the log, Chief Haltom says. The firelogs are made of compressed sawdust and wax, and when they are poked, bits of burning wax may stick to the fireplace tools and drop on the carpet. Poking also may break up the log, creating a larger burning surface and resulting in an intense heat flareup.

The logs are designed to burn for two or three hours without special attention, he points out, and the best method of tending such a fire is to sit back, relax, and enjoy it.

Most importantly, he emphasizes, follow all the directions on the firelog wrapper.

However, Chief Haltom says, for the brands of firelogs which have few instructions consumers should consider the following list of cautions for using any manufactured firelog. These directions include:

- Start with an open damper and a clean flue.
- Use the right log for the fireplace - small logs producing lower heat are acceptable for small and free-standing fireplaces.
- Read the manufacturer's instructions - and follow them.
- Place the log at the back of the fireplace, preferably on a grate.
- Don't unwrap the log.
- Don't overload your fireplace.
- Never break up a burning log.
- Don't try to move a burning log - it can break.
- Never add manufactured firelogs to an existing fire. However, a firelog or other fuel may be added to a manufactured firelog after two hours.
- Never leave children unattended near fire.

To extinguish in emergency, douse flames with sand, water or chemical fire extinguisher. Do not break log apart, as this tends to spread the fire.

Haltom says that simply by paying close attention to such safety instructions, consumers can take full advantage of the benefits manufactured logs provide.

A Little Of: This And That

At long last, there was a passenger train on the old Monon (now Louisville & Nashville Railroad) Thursday morning at the Greencastle depot.

The Amtrak Chicago to Miami Train No. 51, was routed out of Chicago to Greencastle and Louisville due to tornado damage in the northern part of the state. Ordinarily, the train would have gone through Indianapolis.

The train stopped here at 6:25 a.m. and 12 passengers got off to take a bus to Indianapolis.

Frank Baker Appointed Guard Commander

Capt. Frank Baker of the 181st Tactical Fighter Group, Indiana Air National Guard, is the first non-physician nationally to be appointed commander of a National Guard medical unit.

Capt. Baker was promoted to commander of the 181st Tactical Dispensary recently, according to Lt. Col. Frank L. Hettlinger, base commander. Past medical unit commander requirements called for only a physician to be considered.

A Greencastle resident, Capt. Baker is the administrator of the Putnam County Hospital. He is a 1960 business graduate of Oklahoma University and was graduated from Syracuse University with a master's in Business Administration in 1964.

Capt. Baker has been a member of the 181st Tactical Fighter Group since June of 1970 and has completed 21 years of military service, including active and reserve duty. His 12 years of active duty included two overseas tours of duty; Okinawa 1953-54 and Morocco 1962-63.

Police Investigate Minor Accident

Greencastle police investigated a minor accident at 9:55 a.m. Thursday between two vehicles heading north on Jackson St.

The vehicles involved were a 1970 Ford driven by Rita Poynter, 24, Bainbridge, and a 1966 Pontiac driven by Ronnie E. Van Bibber, 27, Route 1, Greencastle.

Police said Poynter attempted to make a left hand turn, but Van Bibber mistook her intentions and began to

Damage to the Poynter automobile was estimated at $150. No damage was sustained by the Van Bibber auto. There were no injuries to either part and neither received a citation.

The conclave will allow delegates to exchange views and discuss problems facing the general fraternity as a whole, DePauw sophomore Jerry Hallett, who will co-chair the event with senior Tim Paschal, said.

Through workshops and discussion groups meeting Saturday morning and afternoon, delegates will attempt to learn how to better run their individual chapters.

Representation of Midwest views at the General Assembly of the National Fraternity, meeting at Knoxville, Tenn. in August, is another purpose of the conclave.

"Conclave provides an opportunity in which we can draft legislation and submit it to the General Assembly for their consideration," Hallett said.

"But it's not all work, he added; "a party with a live band is planned for Saturday night."

For Sunday morning, A Celebration of Life religious meeting is planned.

All of the estimated sixty-five delegates attending the conclave will eat and sleep in the DePauw Lambda Chi Alpha house.

Looking at the conclave as a whole, Hallett concluded, "It's a total experience that encompasses the social, spiritual and political life of the fraternity."

Joint Services For Russellville Churches

Joint services will again be held during Holy Week by the Russellville Christian Church and the Russellville United Church of Christ. Services will be held nightly beginning Palm Sunday at 7:30 p.m. each evening. On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the services will be held in the United Church of Christ. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the services will be held in the Christian Church.

A special Maundy Thursday Communion service is planned for Thursday.

The guest song leader for these services is Mrs. Starlit Powers. Special music will also be provided each evening by groups from the surrounding area. The Rev. Leo Thompson, minister of both of the Russellville churches, will be speaking each evening except Thursday. His sermons are a series based on some of the questions asked of Jesus by Pilate.

The Christian Youth Fellowship, composed of high school youth of both churches.

It was the unanimous decision to continue using this name, because it best describes the way they feel about their ministry—after the old Circuit Riding Preacher who went anywhere and everywhere he was called to bring the Gospel to those who would listen often right from the back of his horse using is guitar as a pulpit.

"The Circuit Riders extend a warm welcome to you, to hear what they feel is a sincere ministry, through music and testimony about the Saviour they serve and want to share with you," the Church said.

Dear Abby

Advice on husband's 'generosity' stands

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Your outdated advice to the woman whose husband wanted her to have sex with other men really irked me. I'd have advised her to ask her husband why he wanted to share her. If it was because he didn't love her and wanted to get rid of her, then I fully agree, she shouldn't put up with it. But, did you ever stop to think that maybe the husband enjoyed her so much in bed that he wanted to show others what a great wife he has? Or it's possible that his sexual enjoyment may really be heightened if she has sex with other men?

Please don't call this perverted, or say that this man needs a psychiatrist. He doesn't need one. Read the sex manuals. This is an accepted sex practice and is widely accepted nowadays. SEE THE LIGHT

DEAR SEE: I'm sorry I cannot agree with you. No man in our culture who truly loves his wife wants her to have sex with other men. If his own sexual enjoyment is heightened by such a need, it suggests either that he may have unconscious homosexual feelings or that he consciously or unconsciously has a need to degrade his wife.

DEAR ABBY: What happens to a man when he becomes 59 years of age and wants to be young again? My husband dislikes being addressed as "Grandpa," is now sporting sideburns and a mustache [which he dyes], asked for a bicycle for Christmas, and is shamelessly carrying on a flirtation with a 38-year-old woman.

Our 24-year-old daughter, who is a nurse, refers to his behavior as "the male menopause syndrome," and I call it "the fountain of youth disease."

What do you call it?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: I call it "geriatriphobia"—fear of growing old. [Don't try to find it in the dictionary—I just made it up.] It's harmless, unless the flirtation has gone beyond the conversation stage.

DEAR ABBY: I am not well-known, but I am a professional artist. Abby, you would not believe how many friends and relatives expect me to GIVE them a painting! They don't consider the hours I invest, not to mention the costs, such as canvases, paints, brushes, frames, etc.

This is how I make my living, but in spite of all the requests I've had, none of these people have ever bought me as much as a meal.

People obviously have the mistaken idea that an artist is supposed to be rewarded just knowing that someone wants to hang his painting. Many other artists have this problem. Help us all and print this letter, please. Also some advice, if you have any. TEXAN

DEAR TEXAN: Consider it done. Now, if your friends and relatives get angry with you for refusing to give them a painting—give 'em the brush.

Bidding Quiz

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1♦	Pass	1♥	Pass
2♦	Pass	3♥	Pass
3NT	Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠J7 ♥AKQJ952 ♦63 ♣J8
2. ♠KJ ♥KQ9872 ♦Q974 ♣10
3. ♠72 ♥KQJ9764 ♦A5 ♣J6
4. ♠AJ8 ♥KJ8743 ♦A75 ♣K

1. Pass. There is no good reason to think that four hearts is safer than three notrump. On the contrary, North will almost certainly be able to run nine quick tricks in notrump, as your hearts are solid and North will have at least one stopper in any suit that is led. Four hearts could result in losing four tricks, particularly with North having twice shown minimum values after opening the bidding. The hand can stand four losers in notrump, but not in hearts.

2. Four diamonds. This hand does not lend itself to notrump and is obviously better designed for suit play. Four diamonds (forcing) permits North to go on to five or show belated support for hearts. Minor suit games are fairly rare, since most hands with a potential of eleven tricks usually produce nine in notrump, but here the danger implicit in a notrump contract is much too great.

3. Four Hearts. The chance of making four hearts is excellent, since four tricks are highly unlikely to be lost, while three notrump might prove to be a ticklish affair. The danger in notrump is that the opponents, having the advantage of the opening lead, might establish their long suit before dummy's hearts can be established.

It may turn out that four hearts and three notrump can both be made, depending upon partner's hand, but in the long haul four hearts will prove easier to negotiate.

4. Four diamonds. It is practically certain that partner can make three notrump, but a pass is not quite right because there is still a good chance for a slam. Thus, six diamonds would be a breeze if partner held:

♠K92 ♥5 ♦KQ9863 ♣AJ4

Investigating a slam by bidding four diamonds does not really jeopardize game possibilities. It keeps the avenue open to both a game and a slam, and what you do next depends largely on how North reacts to your continued probing efforts. Thus, if he now cuebids spades or clubs, you go right to six diamonds.

Forrest Miller Recognized At Purdue Affair

Forrest T. Miller, Greencastle, Extension forester for the 20 counties making up Areas III and V was recognized at the annual forestry and conservation department banquet at Purdue University.

Miller is retiring at the end of June, having served more than 25 years in state-federal forestry work.

Dr. Robert Owen Petty, associate professor of biology at Wabash College received the 1974 Chase S. Osborn wildlife conservation award at Purdue University.

Purdue's provost, Dr. Harold F. Robinson, made the presentation at the annual affair.

Petty, a native of Indianapolis and widely known in the Midwest for his work and leadership in environmental conservation, was cited for "outstanding contributions and distinguished service to wildlife conservation in Indiana." He received a scroll and $250.

The award was established by the late Purdue president Edward C. Elliott in memory of his lifelong friend, Chase S. Osborn, one of Purdue's first students and later governor of Michigan.

In addition to serving on the Wabash faculty, Petty teaches several biology courses at Purdue's West Lafayette campus.

He is a graduate of Howe High School and Butler University, where he majored in both botany and English. While working on the M.S. degree in plant ecology at Purdue, he was awarded the University's highest literary honor, the Frederick L. Hovde award in literature, for a collection of his verses.

He taught at the Purdue-Fort Wayne campus for one year before joining the Wabash College biology department in 1959. Petty received his doctorate in 1966 from Purdue. He has also studied at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Active in state and national conservation affairs, he is currently president of the Indiana Resource Chapter of the Izaak Walton League. He also has served as long-term chairman of the Natural Areas Preservation Committee of the Indiana Academy of Science, of which he is a Fellow. He has been a tireless worker for perpetuating the best habitats for wildlife and unusual flora.

Petty's writings range from technical papers to poetry journal contributions. His outstanding evocative essay on the prairies appears in the National Geographic Society's 1973 volume, "Wilderness USA."

Students recognized at the banquet included:

Stephen W. Creech, Linton, who received the outstanding senior award in forestry for "displaying the best qualities of leadership and scholarship." He received a Society of American Foresters' tie clasp emblem and a year's membership in the SAF, donor of the awards. His graduation index is 5.55 on a 6.0 scale.

Cedric J. Clark, Valparaiso, who was named outstanding camper at the 1973 Purdue Lost Lake forestry camp in northern Wisconsin. He received a Silva Ranger Compass, a gift from the Purdue Forestry Club. A junior, his graduation index is 5.42.

Special merit awards went to Kenneth E. Lampe, Fowler, a senior in forestry; Joel K. Eichenberger, Nappanee, a senior in conservation; and Theodore C. Bast, Warsaw, and Stephen L. Hill, Peru, seniors in wildlife science. Each received a monetary award and recognition for excellence in grades, performance in activities, and personal development.

J.W. Haggard, Monroe, was presented the Xi Sigma Pi national honorary forestry fraternity award for outstanding scholastic achievement and participation in extracurricular activities. A sophomore, Haggard has a 5.85 index after three semesters. He also was given a Silva Ranger Compass.

Dennis W. Woolington, Route 3, Plymouth, a senior in wildlife science, was named recipient of the William A. Rafferty Award in Wildlife, recognizing scholarship, leadership, active participation, and personal development. His graduation index is 4.86 and he has been active in the Purdue Wildlife Club four years.

Woolington received a framed certificate and a check for $250. His name will also be on a permanent plaque, denoting recipients of the award. The award was established in 1973 from a bequest of the Major W.A. Rafferty estate.

Mauri Williamson, Ag Alumni executive secretary, said the dinner meeting would be open to alumni and their wives.

Cooperating in the event are Ag Alumni chapters from Decatur, Dearborn, Bartholomew, Johnson, Shelby, Jackson, Jennings, Jefferson, Scott, Clark, Floyd, Franklin, Ohio, Brown, Switzerland, Ripley and Harrison counties.

Seasonal Upswing In Hog And Fed Cattle Prices Expected

A seasonal upswing in hog prices and stronger fed cattle prices are in prospect for the next several weeks, according to Purdue University agricultural economists.

However, soybean prices likely will move irregularly lower into summer, and corn prices during April and May will be irregular, they add.

Prices of all barrows and gilts at the seven major hog markets are expected to average near $38.50 per hundredweight for the April-June quarter, the economists say. Slaughter hog prices, which averaged $34-$35 during March, "are somewhat below break-even for the typical mid-western producer," they note.

Choice steers at Omaha are expected to range from $44-$46 per hundredweight during April and then strengthen after the backlog of heavy cattle goes to market.

"We may see reduced supplies of beef for 60-90 days at a time when demand is increasing," the economists observe. "But consumer resistance is likely to limit wholesale beef prices, which were about 65 cents a pound in late March, to the 80-82 cent level."

A fertilizer shortage for corn could result in switching more acres to soybeans, thus emphasizing prospects of a larger soybean crop, the economists point out.

Demand for corn continues strong, they assert, but add:

"...1974 crop expectations will tend to offset this price strengthening influence as summer approaches. Delayed plantings and/or unfavorable growing weather could result in significantly stronger summer prices."

For Hoosier dairymen the economists foresee steady to slightly lower milk prices until late spring. Then they will rise seasonally into the fall and remain well above current levels for the remainder of this year.

Egg prices are expected to decline seasonally, averaging about 55 cents a dozen (fancy large at wholesale in New York) during May. Turkey prices are likely to remain near late March levels (46 cents a pound for young toms wholesale in New York) during the next couple of months.

About 80 Percent Of Corn In

About 80 per cent of Indiana's 1973 corn crop of 534 million bushels was harvested by combines with corn heads, according to state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University. Eighty-five per cent of the crop was harvested as shelled corn.

Bare Lawn Can Be Beautiful

Many suburban houses have a large bare expanse of lawn with a solitary tree standing in the middle. In a situation like that it doesn't take much to transform the scene into a colorful centerpiece.

Shown above is a simple flower bed created from rough natural boulders and planted in the middle with flowering annuals.

Where the tree is tall, allowing plenty of sunlight under the base, petunias, dwarf marigolds, salvias, pansies and geraniums would make a colorful bed.

Under more shady conditions some shade loving annuals should be considered such as impatiens, coleus, begonias and vinca.

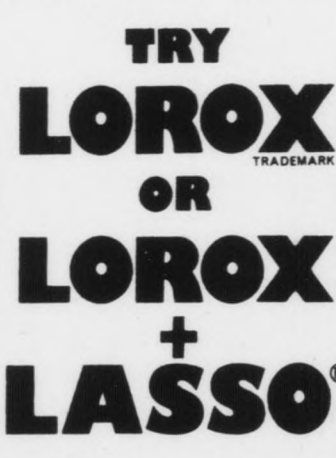

Instead of boulders, a raised bed like this could be constructed, from railroad ties or bricks. A raised bed is generally better than a sunken bed under trees because shallow tree roots often obstruct the proper growth of plants, and deep spading to create adequate room can result in damage to the tree.

To a house-proud homeowner this kind of idea can make the difference between looking like everyone else on the block and showing a little imagination.

Needless Field Trips Will Burn Up Fuel

Needless trips across the field this spring will burn precious fuel, run up costs and result in lost time at corn and soybean planting, notes Jerry V. Mannering, Purdue University extension agronomist.

The old concept of having the field surface completely trash free, firmed and finely pulverized can actually reduce corn and soybean yields in some years, he adds. Finely tilled soil runs together and forms surface crusts adversely affecting plant emergence, water intake and soil aeration.

Results from recent Indiana tillage tests show little difference in corn yields in most years between one and two seedbed preparation trips. For example, when fall plowed land was disked twice and planted compared with a single field cultivator trip ahead of the planter, the single trip resulted in:

yield increases of a bushel an acre on well drained sandy loam soil in northern Indiana;

yield increases of four bushels an acre on somewhat poorly drained high clay soil in eastern Indiana; and yield increases of seven bushels an acre on very poorly drained high clay soil in eastern Indiana.

However, a three bushel an acre decline was found on poorly drained soil in northern Indiana.

Some 1,200 Frosh And Soph Will Visit Purdue

Some 1,200 Hoosier high school freshmen and sophomores will visit Purdue University Saturday, April 6, to learn more about university life and opportunities offered by higher education.

Sponsored by the Purdue Agricultural Alumni Association, the 16th annual Operation Brainpower will begin at 10 a.m. in Loeb Playhouse, Stewart Center, where the 60-member Purdue Collegiate Band, Purdue's President Arthur G. Hansen and Miss Nancy Vanada, Route 1, Newburgh, a sophomore in horticulture, will welcome the visitors. A panel of students will preview student life at Purdue and tell "How to Improve Your Life Through Education."

Following will be career sessions with each of the university's nine schools where students can visit with faculty members and discuss college life, study requirements, costs of attending a university and career opportunities.

The high school students and their chaperones—chiefly teachers and counselors—will lunch in the university's residence halls. Then university students will lead walking tours of the campus.

Chairman for Operation Brainpower—1974 is Prof. Jack Long, assistant dean of agriculture and assistant director of resident instruction. Ag Alumni chapters from 40 counties are cooperating in this year's event, according to Maurice L. Williamson, executive secretary of the Ag Alumni Association, who said that Operation Brainpower has brought some 30,000 high school students to Purdue's campus since it was initiated in 1958.

Hoosier Swine Men Plan Cut

Hoosier swine raisers, hit recently by lower prices, plan to cut their production during the next six months.

State-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University report that 240,000 sows are expected to produce litters March through May.

This is a four per cent drop from the corresponding period last year. For the June through August quarter Indiana farmers plan to have 220,000 sows farrow—nine per cent fewer than in the same period of 1973.

Two hundred twenty thousand and sows farrowed 1.5 million pigs on Indiana farms during December, 1973, and January and February of this year. This was six per cent fewer sows than a year earlier and a 14 per cent decline in the size of the pig crop.

As of March 1 hogs on Indiana farms totaled 4.7 million, two per cent fewer than on March 1, 1973.

Hammerin' Henry Pounds 714

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ageless Hank Aaron shed the ghost of Babe Ruth Thursday.

"It's a load off my back," said the Atlanta Braves slugger after tying baseball's most revered record by slamming his 714th home run in his first at-bat of 1974.

The victim was Jack Billingham, who explained "You don't make mistakes to Henry Aaron."

But the Cincinnati Reds, the defending National League West champions, recouped after the epic shot and rallied to a 7-6 victory in 11 innings. Pete Rose, who doubled home the tying run with two out in the ninth inning, doubled again with two out in the 11th and scored the winning run all the way from second base on Buzz Capra's wild pitch.

Aaron indicated he'll play in Saturday's game against lefty Don Gullett, who has given up more homers—seven—to the Atlanta star than any other Cincinnati pitcher.

Concealing the pressure of his long chase of Ruth's record, Aaron said he'll show more emotion when he claims the record-breaking 715th homer.

"I'll probably run around the bases backward," said the reserved superstar.

Rose, who watched the historic shot sail over his head in left field, said: "I knew it was gone. It made me mad. I didn't mind it being a homer, but you're always disappointed when it happens with men on base. But Henry deserves it."

Rose, who singled and scored in the first inning and walked in the eighth preceding Tony Perez's three-run homer, doubled home the tying run in the ninth after George Foster delivered a two-out pinch single.

With two out in the 10th, the defending National League batting champion doubled again off Capra, Atlanta's fifth pitcher. He then raced all the way home when Capra uncorked a wild pitch that rolled to the corner of the Braves' dugout along the third base line.

Dave Concepcion homered for Cincinnati's other run in the fifth inning.

The game was less than five minutes old when the 40-year-old Aaron, a native of Mobile, Ala., crashed his historic homer before a sun-splashed crowd of 52,154, largest opening day turnout in the 106-year history of baseball's oldest team.

Aaron's 380-foot blast pulled him abreast of a record once considered unattainable. The record-tying feat came 39 years after Ruth retired from the game he popularized. Aaron was 1 year old when Ruth hit his final homer.

An 11th-hour addition to the lineup, Aaron's historic homer came after considerable dispute and drama. The question of his availability spawned a feud with baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Braves' brass. The team announced earlier this spring that Aaron would be withheld until Atlanta's home-opening series Monday.

The homer was his 96th off his favorite victims and his first season-opening round-tripper and came at 2:40 p.m., EDT.

A rousing ovation greeted Aaron in his initial at-bat. Billingham, a 19-game winner last year, had started shakily, walking Ralph Garr and yielding a single to Mike Lum.

The 31-year-old right-hander ran the count to 3-1. Aaron sent the next pitch over the left-field fence near the 375-foot mark. He jogged around the bases and was mobbed by his teammates as he crossed the plate.

The ball was retrieved in a runaway by a Cincinnati policeman, Clarence Williams, and presented to Aaron in a six-minute ceremony near home plate.

Aaron certified the momentous feat by going to the edge of the stands to kiss his wife, Billye, his bride of five months. Sitting with her were Aaron's father and brother.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford, who earlier threw out the game's first ball, saluted the homer, calling the feat "a great day for you and a great day for baseball." Ford then wished Aaron "good luck for No. 715 and a good many more."

Aaron later grounded out to third base in the fifth inning and walked in the fifth, later scoring on an error. It was his 2,062nd career run scored, tying him for third place on that all-time list with Willie Mays.

Aaron then lined out to center field in the seventh inning and was removed from the game in the bottom of the seventh with the Braves leading 6-2.

The home run came in his 2,965th major league game. Ruth played 2,503 games in 22 years. Aaron has had 2,890 more times at bat than Ruth.

Cub Baseball: Ability's There

Hitting and speed standout in Jim Peck's mind as the Greencastle varsity baseball coach runs down his team prior to their opening game Saturday against Southmont.

Peck will have the pleasure of nine returning lettermen taking field in his first campaign at the helm of the Tiger Cub baseball squad, featuring above average speed and good power in the bats.

Presently battling for the starting catcher nod are junior Stacy Spencer and senior Bill Wallace both returning lettermen and solid defensive receivers.

At first base, another battle goes on, this one between lettering junior Phil Fisher and senior Carter Bock.

Around the rest of the infield, Peck will have lettermen everywhere: senior Mike Duncan at second, junior Randy Jones at shortstop, and senior John Allee at third, who lettered at North Putnam last year.

Two of the three starting out-fielders lettered last season, sophomore Jeff Cantonwine in left and senior Kim Jones in center. Senior Robert Plessinger presently holds the inside track on the right field job.

On the mound Saturday will be letterman Rick Parrish, a senior. Also slated to see action on the hill this spring are sophomore Bill Earl, junior Frazier, who also plays the infield, Bock and Cantonwine.

Rounding out the varsity are a pair of junior out-fielders, Kevin Miller and Eric Losin.

The main source of concern for Peck is the lack of experience of his pitching staff. Parrish, who heads the crew, worked only nine innings for the Cubs last year. It's still too early yet to tell how he and the other hurlers will do in game situations.

Last year's team ended up the season with a 12-6 record, while copping the sectional tournament for the third straight year. As far as goals for this year's crew are concerned, Peck wants to get the most out of the ability that's there. The basketball coach and athletic director at Schulte High School last year hasn't had the chance to see the baseball teams around here the last year or so, and consequently will not say more about specific goals for his team.

He and his assistant, Gerald York, have so far been pleased with the attitude the players have displayed during the preseason preparations. "There's plenty of hustle. They've done everything we've asked."

Adding one last thought about the upcoming season Peck said, "The ability is there. The boys have just got to believe in themselves."

Cougar Baseballers Want Outside

"The pepper games are getting more ferocious every night."

These words of North Putnam varsity baseball coach Jerry Olson fittingly described the situation up in Cougar country for his squad, which has been confined almost exclusively to practicing indoors so far.

There are only so many things a baseball team can do indoors some of which is not hitting, another of which is not practicing realistic game situation plays.

But so far Olson and assistant coach Ron Price are getting co-operation and enthusiasm from the same 26 ball players who are itching to get outdoors.

The Cougars will have a young squad, counting on quite a few boys from last year's B-team. The only seniors on the team are pitcher-shortstop Bill Draper and second sacker Dan McGaughey.

The rest of the players, taking them position by position around the diamond are thirdbasemen: junior Brad Ades, sophomore Neil Miles and Rick Daniels (also a pitcher); secondbasemen: junior Jerry Miller and freshmen Steve Davasher and Forest Knapp; firstbasemen: sophomore Jim Brothers (also a pitcher) and freshmen

Don Brothers Richard Rooker, and Dennis Hedge; catchers: sophomore Tray Etcheson and freshmen Steve McGaughey and Jeff Miller; outfielders: juniors Dick Fordice, Jerry Malayer, Joe Alenduff, and Rex Call (also a pitcher), and freshmen Brett Cloncs, David Gilstrap, David Shonkwiler, Steve Jones, and David Lawless.

These players will be broken up into A and B teams, but Olson hasn't yet seen enough of them to decide who goes where.

Talking about goals for this year's varsity, the first year coach would like to improve last season's 5-9 Cougar Baseball record.

Olson would like to see the improvement reach at least the .500 level, while at the same time devoting attention to building up the baseball program at the school.

Being new to the area, having coached previously in southern Indiana, Olson doesn't know what to expect in the way of the opposition his Cougars will face, but by the time the sectional rolls around in the end of May, the 19 games he will have been through should give him some kind of idea.

But for now, it's just a case of trying to keep the pepper games in hand until the weatherman lets the Cougars outdoors.

Track, Baseball At DePauw Tomorrow

Eight defending individual champions and team winner Carthage College (Wis.) will return Saturday for DePauw University's ninth annual invitational track and field meet.

Field events in the 13-team meet will begin at noon in DePauw's Blackstock Stadium with running events set to go 30 minutes later. Over 400 athletes are entered in the event.

Sending squads to contest Carthage's bid for a repeat of its 1973 team title are Butler, Franklin, Indiana Central, Manchester, Marian, Millikin, Oakland City, Rose-Hulman, Valparaiso, Wabash, Washington (St. Louis), and the host Tigers.

Last year Butler took the runnerspot, finishing four and one-half points behind the winners. Indiana Central was number three.

Outstanding individuals back this year are two champs from Franklin College, David Lyon, javelin, and Mike McClure, 220-yard dash. Lyon took the javelin last year in 194-9. His best throw is 205. McClure took the 220, :22.8.

Carthage has two repeaters in Tom Joerres, 3,000 meter steeplechase, and John Buesing, discus. Joerres will be out to beat last year's 9:27.8 and Buesing his 153-1.

Tom Burleson of Butler already holds the Blackstock Stadium and meet record with last year's 4:12.9 clocking in the mile. His best time this year is 4:09.

Other defending titlist include Jerry Allgood, Indiana Centera, shot put, 51-5.5; Dennis Murray, Valparaiso, 880 yard run, 1:51.1; and Tim Winterroth, Manchester, 440-yard intermediate hurdles, :5.0.

The meet will be under the general direction of DePauw's head track coach Dr. Robert Harvey.

Just how close DePauw comes to its predicted fourth place finish in the Indiana Collegiate Conference baseball race may be partially revealed here tomorrow.

That's when the 3-8-1 Tigers pit their bats and defense against 7-5 Wabash College in both teams' first ICC baseball test. The doubleheader at Blackstock Stadium is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. The games will be broadcast live by WGFE-FM.

Since returning home from the South with a 1-7 record, the Tigers have split a doubleheader with Marian College and Tuesday took a 9-1 decision from Rose-Hulman before darkness ended the nightcap after nine innings with a 5-5 score.

Last year Wabash took a doubleheader from DePauw in Crawfordsville. The Little Giants won the opener 3-0 and the finale 15-12 after building up an 11-0 lead on the Tigers.

STATE DECLARED NATIONAL DISASTER

Bowen Tours Stricken Areas

Gov. Bowen Visibly Shaken
By Mass Destruction

Gov. Otis R. Bowen, at times visibly shocked, flew over tornado-devastated Indiana communities Thursday, visited with some of the homeless, and tried to assure all that help would be provided.

Information dribbled in from towns and isolated rural areas smashed by Wednesday's killer tornadoes.

There were 53 confirmed deaths, and as many as 1,000 injured.

President Nixon declared Indiana and four other states to be national disaster areas.

Bowen and his party circled what was left of Monticello, north of Lafayette, in helicopters and the governor then took a separate motor tour of the business district and other areas of the community of about 4,800.

The governor started off about 8 a.m. for an eight hour tour of the demolished cities and rural Hoosier farmland where four distinct tornado paths struck with a fury.

Monticello, Rochester and northeastern Indiana were the hardest hit in the northern part of the state. The funnels also ripped along the Ohio River, smashing into an area on the Indiana side from Louisville, Ky., to Cincinnati, Ohio, with the Madison area the hardest hit along this path. A wide belt of southern Indiana between Indianapolis and the southeastern corner of the state also was raked by the twisters.

While at Monticello, Bowen walked the streets of a subdivision on the western edge of the city, where roughly three-fourths of the 50 houses were destroyed or seriously damaged.

He approached one woman who greeted him crying loudly. Bowen offered his sympathy, saying, "There will be some help as far as easy loans for your recuperation. We're just glad you're not hurt."

The woman responded, still sobbing loudly, "But my home is gone."

Bowen appeared at times visibly shocked by the extent of the damage in Monticello. While he was talking to the sobbing woman, he was standing in the family's roofless house, the walls leaning. The woman's husband, standing in the yard, asked the governor to please step out of the house for fear it would collapse.

Eight dead were reported at Monticello, the largest loss of life in a single community hit by the twisters.

Indiana State Police Lt. Dick Shelton said they were officially listing 139 injuries, with about half of these considered serious injuries and including four or five critically injured. Police said 41 required hospitalization. The injured were taken to White County Memorial Hospital at Monticello and two Lafayette hospitals.

The official damage figure state police gave out for Monticello, gathered from a professional insurance adjuster, was $100 million. Police said 150-175 homes and 100 businesses were destroyed in the community.

Two banks in the downtown area were destroyed. The president of one of the banks guarded the vault through the night and during the morning. Two churches were destroyed and one partially damaged.

Cleanup crews quickly went to work and the streets were practically cleared of the rubble by noon.

Energy Office
Orders Supply Increase

WASHINGTON SP-The Federal Energy Office ordered on Thursday the tapping of some 11.1 million gallons of gasoline from inventories to increase the nation's average daily supply in April by about four per cent.

The FEO said its April gasoline allocations were designed to ensure that every state gets at least 90 per cent as much gasoline as it got in April, 1972, adjusted for growth in vehicle registrations since then.

Other states whose per-day allocation was cut were: Arkansas, one per cent less; Arizona, per cent; District of Columbia 3 per cent; Florida 2 per cent; Georgia 4 per cent; Illinois one per cent; Kansas 4 per cent; Louisiana 5 per cent; Massachusetts 4 per cent; Oklahoma 9 per cent and Wyoming 6 per cent.

The per-day allocations of Idaho and New Hampshire were virtually unchanged.

Thirteen states were assigned April per-day increases ranging from 10 to 29 per cent, compared with March.

They were: Alaska, 29 per cent; Hawaii 16 per cent; Iowa 15 per cent; Indiana 14 per cent; Michigan 11 per cent; Missouri 14 per cent; Montana 14 per cent; North Carolina 29 per cent; Ohio 17 per cent; Oregon 10 per cent; Rhoda Island 16 per cent; South Carolina 11 per cent; and West Virginia 14 per cent.

Indiana, Alabama, Kentucky,
Ohio, Tennessee, All
National Disaster Areas

WASHINGTON AP-President Nixon declared the States of Alabama, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and Tennessee to be national disaster areas today because of devastating tornadoes that swept through those areas Wednesday.

The designation makes affected areas of these states eligible for special federal aid to restore public facilities and clears the way for disaster loans and other help to homeowners and businessmen who fell victim to the twisters.

Announcing this, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren noted the rash of tornadoes also struck parts of Georgia, Illinois, North Carolina and Michigan and said, "It's quite likely there'll be other disaster declarations later."

Because of the suddenness of the disasters, Warren said, some governors telephoned the White House Wednesday night to seek disaster declarations. They had to make such requests before Nixon could act.

Warren said the President, in this case, "wouldn't wait for a telegram or a letter of request" before taking action.

Nixon received a personal briefing on the disasters at a non-hour White House conference from Thomas Dunn, administrator of the Federal Disaster Relief Administration; James T. Lynn, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and Kenneth R. Cole, Jr., director of the Domestic Council.

Republican Sens. Robert Taft of Ohio and Marlow Cook of Kentucky also participated in the meeting.

Warren was asked if Nixon planned to tour any of the stricken areas. He said the President plans to fly to Paris Friday to attend memorial services for the late French President Georges Pompidou made an early trip impossible, but added that Nixon might make an inspection tour at some later date.

Pewter Called Today's Metal By Author

By PATRICIA COFFEY
Bridgeport Post Writer
RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Pewter, a metal that conjures up images of tarnished ale cups and heavy plates in dark English pubs, is "today's metal," according to the author of a new book.

Shirley Charron, whose pewter works include optical reflectors as well as more traditional, practical pieces, says pewter does not have

Do you agree with Mildred's remarks about TV and radio commercials? If you were the sponsor, would you want your brief but costly 100 words of sales copy drowned out by loud sound effects in the background?

CASE Z-595: Mildred P., aged 56, is the older of my 2 sisters.

While she was down at our summer farm home, we happened to be viewing TV. "If I ran a TV station," she irritably exclaimed, "I'd make sure the sound effects and music didn't drown out the spoken words!"

"For example, I was watching Hawaii Five-O the other night."

"And I didn't object to the sound effects men giving us the noise of the ocean surf, at least for a few seconds, to set the stage."

"But they continued to mask the dialogue of the actors by that loud booming of the ocean waves."

"We viewers, too, don't even like the sudden surge of excessive sound that signals the onset of the commercials."

"The same has long been true of radio, for during its brief commercials, the power is routinely too strong, thus hampering the sponsor's words."

"Yet it is his money that is paying for the entire radio or TV program."

"So why don't the sponsors get smart and make sure the viewers or listeners can hear the vital words of the movie stars and especially the sponsor's commercials?"

AMEN AND AMEN To which I uttered a vociferous "Amen!"

For several years I conducted a 15-minute daily radio program on 129 of America's leading stations, including KYW, WGN, WOR, etc.

And it always irritated me to have the sound effects or music blare out during the commercials.

And I agree with my sister Mildred re the TV noise that often continues as a blaring backdrop for the more interesting dialogue. "Dr. Crane," you may protest, "maybe the sound effects men try to wake up the viewers, especially when the commercials occur!"

But a momentary blaring can set the stage for steamship whistles, ocean surf, or other backdrop effects, without having such noise continue throughout the commercials.

"Mood music," too, has its value but only if it is soft enough to avoid competing with the spoken dialogue.

Here in Chicago we had a famous restaurant that for 50 years advertised with this slogan:

"No orchestral din."

Many other restaurants could profitably adopt that same motto, for most people enjoy conversation with their meals, instead of blaring trumpets, clashing cymbals and other noisy backdrop effects.

Remember, it is the spoken words that carry the motif of a movie plot or TV play.

So let's have more Applied Psychology employed by our radio and TV media!

In the legitimate theater, we sit enthralled by the gestures, words and personal actions of the characters, without blaring sound effects in the background.

So why do you TV directors seem to be obsessed with a demand for raucous sound effects?

It's the play that holds

longer a presumption and some people even think twice about going across town.

Many suburban residents relate the energy crisis to larger problems challenging their lifestyle.

Rose Merisko pushed her shopping cart down a supermarket aisle in West Mifflin, Pa., a blue collar suburb 20 minutes driving time from Pittsburgh.

"It's disgusting," she said. "Everytime I shop, prices have jumped. Why, they raise them right before my eyes."

"And it seems that this energy crisis is the same old story. Everyone wants to get their pockets full without worrying about the little man. Pretty soon we're going to have nothing but the rich and the poor and no middle class."

The University of Pittsburgh's Center for Urban Research recently studied response to the energy crisis in the Pittsburgh area. Two-thirds of those surveyed lived in suburbs. Most were white, married and at least high school graduates.

Over 40 per cent said they drive less on Sundays and about the same number visit relatives and friends less often now. About 25 per cent go out to restaurants less frequently and there was a marked decline of interest in buying new cars.

Beyond that, 82 per cent were dissatisfied with the general conditions in America today. And 55 per cent said life would be no better in 1976.

"First we have Watergate, then the meat crisis and the wheat crisis and now the energy crisis. The people are telling us that they can't put up with all these different things," said Dr. Jiri Nehnevajsa, director of the Urban Research Center.

In the long run, say planners and builders, the energy crisis will move people closer to where they work. They talk of redevelopment of the inner suburbs, a movement away from the fringe of the freeway systems. They also talk of condominiums and town houses as replacements for the single family home.

These trends, they emphaour attention, not the noisy backdrop! Many viewers now must even turn down the volume during commercials and then increase it during the main scenario.

Send for my booklet "How to Write Salable Copy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, for it also applies to movie and TV scripts.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Energy Crisis—

sized, were there before the Arabs ever thought of an oil embargo. The energy crisis has simply added momentum.

"Developments will still be spread out, but there is a trend to move a little closer in," said F. R. Clancy, a Phoenix, Ariz., land developer.

The effects of the energy crisis are clearly visible in the Phoenix area, a 1,000-square-mile desert sprawl almost totally dependent on the automobile.

A $4,000 trailer sits in front of Richard Morrison's home in Tempe, Ariz., a middle-class community 30 minutes from Phoenix. "We don't use it too much these days," said Mrs. Morrison.

Helen Everhart, another Tempe resident, said her driving has been reduced to essentials. "Pleasure trips are out and I shop less often," she said.

The same things hold true in Glendale, a fairly typical Southern California suburb. Use of local parks and recreation facilities is up considerably.

"They're not making the big trip to the beach," said Frank Perron of the local YMCA.

At Paddock's Book Store, owner Darven Paddock has seen a resurgence of "how to" books for the home. "There's more and more interest in books from gardening to building something in the backyard to making bread," he said.

And people are more interested in staying near home when they look for a job, said Virginia Harvey, branch manager for the Employment Research Agency in Glendale.

Car pools and mass transit have been beneficiaries of the energy crisis. In the suburbs around Seattle, Wash., the mass transit system reports a 106 per cent increase in ridership. A computer matching service for car pools should get under way this month.

But many people resent the whole thing. If it is just a matter of money, they will keep on driving.

Jeff DeMarce is a truck driver and lives in Burien, Wash., a south Seattle suburb. "I don't like it," he said of the gasoline situation, "but I'm willing to pay more not to hassle it."

IS SERVICE OVER

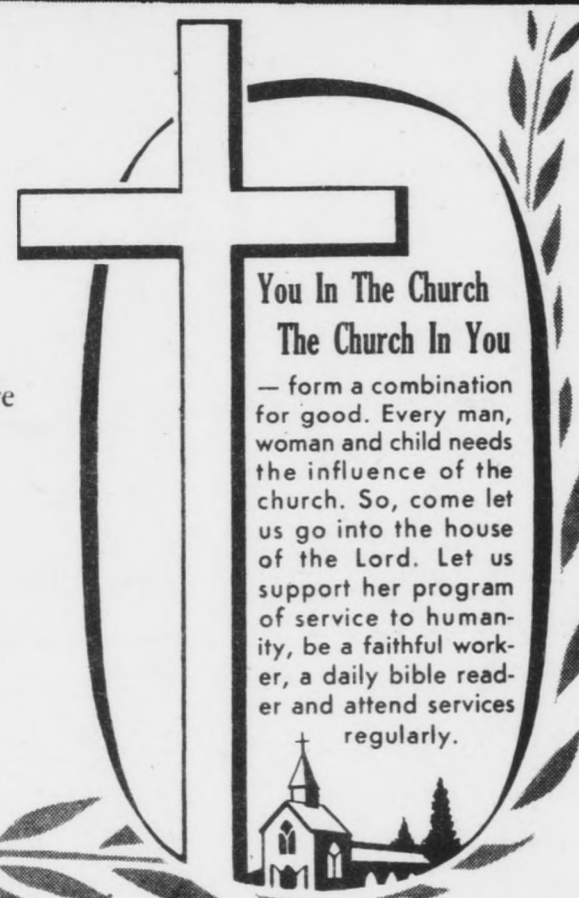

For many of us, church service sometimes seems to go on forever. And when they do, it is most difficult to keep still, and managing to stay awake becomes an 'Everest-like' challenge. When caught in this situation, many a weary worshiper wonders if the service will ever end.

but while the preaching service must end, our personal service should never stop. It should be a daily practice, and not a once-a-week-token that is haphazardly done. And it should be sincere, done out of love instead of a mere performance, which is done many times for personal gain.

When our personal service ceases, then the preaching service will really seem long because we will be listening to what we know we should do but are not doing. That is when misery really sets in.

The worshiper should not lose the joy of his salvation by ceasing to do all the service he can for his church. It should be the Christian's greatest desire not to let the service end for him.

You In The Church The Church In You

— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

This message is dedicated to building a more spiritual, greater church going community. It is being sponsored by the following individuals firms who want, as their only return, to see more people attending church. The church needs your support. The community needs the church.
